CROP OUTLOOK GOOD

SPARR FRUIT COMPANY SENDS OUT LAST CARLOAD TODAY —VALENCIAS TO BEGIN

Local orange growers have had a very fair season for their crop, which has been somewhat light. According to Mr. D. S. Kinney, foreman of the Sparr Fruit company, that shipping concern will finish dispatching its output of navels today when the last carload will go out.

About June 1 work will begin on the shipping of Valencias. Prices have been fair, ranging from 65c a box upward. Mr. Kinney says that the prospects for next year's crop are excellent. The blossoms are the heaviest in years and eliminating all accidents there should be a bumper crop.

This year there has been one of the finest lemon crops ever seen, but prices are so small as to be unremunerative. It does not pay to grow lemons for half a cent a pound. That barely covers the actual cost of growing and picking. The reduction in tariff has brought about that undesirable result.

The citrus crop of California has been steadily increasing during the past nineteen years and is certain to increase much more in the future as the acreage has been increased 128.9 per cent in the last decade.

JUNIOR BARACAS WIN

Verdugo Park was the scene of a hard-fought scrimmage this morning when the boys of the Methodist Junior Baraca class and the members of Miss Pierce's Sunday school class contended for supremacy in the great national game. The Baracas came out winners with a score of 8 to 9 and were properly jubilant over the victory. The members of the winning team are: Wilbur Lee, Russell Laichinger, Elwood Ingledue, Noble Van Ness, Ernest Thede, Fred Wilson, Paul Brooks and Verne Wilson. The defeated team is made up of Raymond Fansett, Lewis Read, Gilbert Emery, Dean Bryant, Hugh Bryant, Chauncey Koltz, Wendle Beldin, Robert Blackburn and Hollis Moyse. Snookums substituted for Gilbert Emery.

RECEIVE SAD NEWS

Mrs. W. M. Johnston, who has been residing at the home of her brother, Henry Johnston of this city, received a telegram Thursday night announcing the sudden death from heart disease of her husband, W. M. Johnston, a well known mining man, at Chicago. Mr. Johnston spent considerable time in Glendale, although most of his business interests were in Chicago and he had been expected to arrive in Glendale the latter part of this week, making the sudden news of his death a shock indeed.

Mr. Johnston's son, who had just arrived in Silverton, Col., from Nome, Alaska, was immediately notified and started for Chicago and will accompany the remains to Glendale, where interment will be made in the family lot at Forest Lawn cemetery.

SURPRISE JESSE FLOWER

On Friday evening a surpriso party was held at the home of Mrs. M. L. Potter, 321 Everett St., in honor of Jesse Flower's nineteenth birthday. Mr. Flower was invited to go to a picture show with several of his friends, and no one could have been more surprised than he when he called at the Potter residence and found a dozen of his friends gathered to extend him birthday congratulations. The evening was most pleasantly spent with games, music and dancing, after which dainty refreshments were served. The house was beautifully decorated with roses, carnations and live oak, the flowers being arranged in veritable banks. Those present were Messrs. James McBryde, James Griddel, George and Charles Potter, Elmer and Jesse Flower and the Misses Dorothy Leach, Irene Meyers, Florence Links, Hazel Flower, Hazel Alleman and the hostess, Ida Potter.

"BACHELOR'S ROMANCE"

The Epworth league girls of Casa Verdugo M. E. church gave the "Bachelor's Romance" Friday evening at the home of Mrs. Doherty on Central avenue. The charming pictures were Miss Cornelia Wilson, his childhood sweetheart; Miss Mable Echols, the school girl; Miss Mary Bradenburg, the winter girl; Miss Nan Browne, college girl; Miss Leota Williamson, bathing girl; Adele Drake, the widow; Miss Helen Bettis, the actress; Mrs. Charles Rathbone, the debutante; and Miss Ethyl West as the bride.

After this Mrs. Robt. Jones gave two very amusing selections.

Refreshments were then served on the pretty flower ladened tables on the veranda.

OF INTEREST TO ALL

USILTON GIVES PLAIN TALK TO THE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

The welfare committee of the chamber of commerce, Frederick Baker, chairman, Albert D. Pearce, secretary, has issued invitations to a banquet at the Masonic temple tomorrow night at which questions will be discussed for the welfare of this city. The advantages of a fifth class city will be one of the topics and other questions of the day will be discussed. The chamber of commerce as well as the city of Glendale should benefit through the efforts of this committee.

The Festival of Fruit and Flowers, under the auspices of the Tuesday Afternoon club, on the 27th, 28th and 29th of this month should be made a brilliant success. It is intended to have a big street parade on the afternoon of the 29th and it is a chance for the live merchant and business man to attract attention. Clem Moore, on Broadway near Louise, has charge of the entries and will give you courteous treatment. There should be at least three prizes given, and in my opinion this organization should offer at least one of them for the best float.

There seems to be much criticism of residents of this city for not dealing exclusively at home. While we believe that there is some cause for criticism, our home trades people should endeavor to meet competition in price and quality, and to convince the residents by publicity that they can do as well at home as elsewhere. Complaints have reached us from a few that the chamber of commerce has been of little material benefit to the city, and, without arguing the question, it strikes us that perhaps the complainants have not done their full duty. Perhaps before condemning it might be well for each one to ask, What have I done to benefit the chamber of commerce? Have I paid my dues or contributed my time to aid in the upbuilding of the chamber, or have I just been a knocker, and tried to pull down and tear up what others are attempting to do?

Glendale is to be congratulated for her enterprise in being so well represented in Los Angeles in La Fiesta. The city's float was inexpensive, compared with many other floats, but drew a prize of $75 and a handsome banner; the Glendale band, the chamber of commerce auto, driven by J. A. Pirtle in his handsome King Eight, the Elks' drill team and Elks' auto driven by C. O. Pulliam, and Mrs. Oliver Clark in her handsomely-trimmed auto occupied by five handsome ladies, and Dr. Rudy's float, beautifully trimmed, made a showing that the entire city should be proud of. In mentioning this thanks should be given to the committee in charge, Archie Parker, Franklin P. Wilson and Mr. Bright, Fred Deal and their assistants for their energetic work in aiding Mr. Steelman to trim the cars after the heavy rains had made flowers so scarce as to make the work doubly arduous.

It is desired to have printed a handsome booklet setting forth the many advantages of this city as a residence place and to do this our secretary will require money. Have you paid your dues and have you urged your neighbor to get his shoulder to the wheel and do his share? Beyond all, remember you have absolutely no right to criticise any member of this body unless you have been active and alert in its behalf, helping to boost and make it the success it should be. It is the easiest thing in the world to sit back and do nothing and carp and criticise at the efforts of others.

In conclusion would state that the committee on industrial site is making progress and will soon make public its report. At this juncture I would like to state that when an important committee is referred to your presiding officer as this was he will in the future, as in the past, submit it to the entire executive board, realizing that better results should be reached in this way.

J. W. USILTON,

NEVER TOO OLD TO LEARN

This forenoon the gas pipe leading to the burners of the linotype machines became filled with water, and thus shut off the supply of gas and delayed the operators with their composition work for almost an hour. The expert gas man from the office of the Southern California Gas company explained that the interior surface of the pipes sweat and in this way water collects to such an extent that it stops the flow of the gas. Maybe the gas man knows, but it seems to a layman that it would require a lot of sweating to fill an ordinary gas pipe with water.

FOR BETTER BABIES

GREAT INTEREST IN BABY CONTEST—MRS. JOHNSON IS CHAIRMAN

Have you paid a visit to the Better Baby Bureau at 428 South Brand boulevard? It will be well worth your while. The exhibit of baby appliances alone is worth a visit. One room of the bungalow has been fitted up as a modern nursery by the Glendale House Furnishing company and is creating much interest among the mothers of our city.

Equally valuable educationally is the display of a drug store, consisting of baby food, bottles and everything that has an important relation to the little one's feeding problem. The babies' ice box and bath tub and sanitary drinking cup are there too. In fact nothing in the scientific care of babies has been omitted.

From time to time expert baby nurses will give of their valuable time to the bureau and when any troublesome question with regard to babies come up will be glad to answer it and to give valuable advice free.

Great interest is being displayed in this, Glendale's first "Better Baby" movement. Don't fail to visit the bureau and tell your friends about it. Register any little tot from six months to 5 years. There is absolutely not a cent of expense connected with entering your baby in the contest except 25 cents registration fee.

Take your baby to the bureau any afternoon from 1 to 5 p. m. The committee in charge will arrange an appointment with any Glendale physician you may name. Meet that appointment promptly with your baby ready for the examination.

The standard scales and other equipment give every baby an equal chance.

The interest taken by Glendale physicians in the better baby movement is highly commendable. That our busy physicians have signified their willingness to give their time absolutely free for the examination work is worthy of praise.

Frills and dainty hand work do not count in this contest—not even beautiful features. It is a "better baby" contest, physical and mental development only being the points to be judged.

There are a number of classes according to age. The first division is for children from 6 months to one year—trophy for the winner a silver loving cup. The other four divisions have as trophies bronze medals. There will be blue ribbons and a valuable physical chart absolutely free for every child examined. Winners in the sweepstakes will be presented with gold medals—one for the best girl, one for the best boy.

Register your baby and avail yourself of an opportunity never before offered in Glendale for the scientific betterment of Glendale's future men and women.

The energetic committee who have planned and are managing this work are: Mrs. Scott W. Johnson, chairman; Dr. Jessie Russell, Mrs. I. H. Durfee, Mrs. I. J. McReynolds, Mrs. L. C. Rice, Miss May White. Registration closes May 22.

H. A. LA GROSS INTERESTED IN L. A. FACTORY

One of the thriving concerns of Los Angeles is the L. & L. Manufacturing company, for the present doing business at 124 E. Third St., Los Angeles, the members of the firm being Mr. Harry A. La Gross of 301 N. Louise street, Glendale, and Mr. Edward I. Lantz of Los Angeles. This company though young is very thriving. It was organized something like five weeks ago for the manufacture of top dressing for automobiles and they have been very fortunate in receiving orders so that it has been necessary to work the plant overtime. In the near future, if the business continues to increase as it has in the past, it will be necessary and the company is planning to have a building of their own where they will have abundant room to expand.

BARACAS' MEETING

A meeting of the Baraca class of the First Methodist Episcopal church was held Thursday evening. There was an excellent attendance and the proceedings were interesting throughout. After business had been dispatched the young people adjourned to the social hall where a pleasing and varied repast had been prepared by the newiy elected social committee. The boxing matches were the feature of the evening.

It was decided to have a picture of the class taken on the steps of the church tomorrow morning, Sunday, May 16. All members of the class are urged to be present at 9:40 in order to get in the picture.

INTERCITY CONTEST

CARLOS ALVEAR, LONG BEACH REPRESENTATIVE, WINS ORATORICAL CONTEST

Glendale sent forth a very large representation in the way of attendance to the Interurban Oratorical league contest in the High School auditorium last night. Hopes were high in the hearts of the local admirers of Purman Bennett, the Glendale representative, but the decision of the judges dashed those hopes to the ground.

In the opinion of Judge Fred H. Taft of the superior court, Judge H. N. Wells of the U. S. C. law school and Miss Beulah Wright, dean of oratory, U. S. C., Carlos Alvear, the Long Beach High School representative, excelled all the others in the masterly manner in which he handled his subject, "Philippine Independence," and was awarded first place. Mr. Alvear aroused the feelings of his audience to a great pitch and showed considerable skill in the arts of oratory. His language was chaste, yet fervid and stimulating.

Mr. Purman Bennett, the Glendale representative, was second with his oration on "Peace and Our National Policy." Mr. Bennett's friends were disappointed, as they naturally thought he would win the contest, but the judges' decision had to be acquiesed in. The high schools in Los Angeles are holding a similar contest and the four winners in the city contest and the interurban competition will now struggle for the championship of Southern California and the cup donated by the University of California.

MUSIC LOVERS FROLIC

Friday, May 14, will be a day long to be remembered by the members of the music section of the Tuesday Afternoon club as one of the happiest days spent this year, when they gathered together at La Ramada for their annual picnic. Each member was priviliged to bring one guest and they certainly were a jolly camp of women.

Smiles were seen everywhere and even Old Sol had to join in and smile too. A long table in the pergola groaned with a weight of goodies and looked particularly dainty strewn with Cecil Brunner roses. A handsome basket of roses in the center and corsage bouquets of the same little roses with a place card attached by dainty pink ribbon made the table most inviting.

The curator, Mrs. Freeman Kelley, spoke a few words of greeting to the guests on behalf of the music section and explained to them that this meeting of the section was the only one of all the year at which all formality was cast aside and the day given over to fun and frolic. She also addressed the members of that section as she resigned from the curatorship, having served in that capacity two years, and took the opportunity to thank them for the love and loyalty they have shown her and to ask them to serve with the same love and loyalty the next curator.

At the close of the address the members sang with much vigor, "For She's a Jolly Good Fellow." From that time on the fun began. Never were such funny stories told. As for Aunt Dinah (Mrs. Rose Meeker) she was taking down notes on table manners. This colored lady was feeling shocked at some of the white folks' table manners.

Mrs. Daniel Campbell, Mrs. Mattison B. Jones and Mrs. Herman West kept the table in a roar of laughter with their wit and humor.

At the close of the luncheon all adjourned to the music room where they gave free run to their fun and frolic. Aunt Dinah led a most glorious cake walk, sending every one into fits of laughter.

Mrs. Daniel Campbell surprised all by rendering a piano number displaying wonderful technique and given in an altogether artistic manner. Mrs. Herman West's voice was never heard to greater advantage than in the charming vocal number entitled "I Love Little Pussy." The chorus was joined in by all in a most effective manner.

Mrs. O. W. Tarr gave a most dramatic reading of a decidedly "goose fleshy" kind. Mrs. Mattison B. Jones sang beautifully that pathetic ballad, 'Collie, Wallie, Doodles All the Day," as sung by Madame Patti. Mrs. W. E. Evans gave a song and dance, showing wonderful ability both as a singer and performer.

Mrs. LeRoy Bosserman played one of her own compositions, which is particularly dainty and will soon be published. Mrs. Grcely Koltz and Mrs. Frank Arnold sang many favorites of the music section and duets and choruses closed the happy day.

WOMEN'S POLITICS

STRENUOUS FIGHT TO BE MADE OVER REACTIONARY TENDENCIES OF FEDERATION

If everything goes along as planned a veritable storm of protest will sweep over the meeting of the California Federation of Women's clubs. Dr. Jessie A. Russell, 343 N. Maryland avenue, who has from the very first taken an active part in the transactions of the Federation, standing always for progressive ideas, says: "There is a reactionary party in the Federation that unfortunately appears to hold the balance of power at present. Everything is done in committee and brought out and dry to the floor of the convention and then railroaded through.

"This was especially the case at the recent convention at Riverside when resolutions were forced through at the rate of one a minute. I and others protested against this antiquated method of handling important resolutions, but our protest was unheeded.

"At Long Beach convention the progressive element in the Federation managed to carry the preferential ballot giving delegates first, second and third choice. I am in favor of freedom of speech in the conventions. I believe that every subject should be discussed openly and that caucus work should be abolished as far as practical. I think individual delegates and individual clubs should have an opportunity of saying whom they desire to elect to the incoming board.

"I am certain that the majority of the individual clubs are in favor of these measures. I think that a majority of the federation is opposed to the present practice by which a nominating committee brings in a ready-made ticket and the secretary is instructed to cast a ballot for that ticket.

"With regard to the resolutions that are likely to be presented to the San Francisco convention proposing to bar from an executive position or board position of any federated club any woman who holds a civic, state or federal office, I am inclined to think, as are many others, that that resolution is aimed at one particular woman by her opponents. No straight-thinking member of the federation could ever consent to vote for a proposal of that nature engineered by a small party within the federation.

"Should there be a representative gathering of the clubs and should the resolution be given a fair discussion at a favorable session I feel sure there would be a majority against it. There are however means and ways of manipulating the vote on such questions and there are schemes in plenty for railroading it through at a non-representative session.

"When the delegates understand that the resolution would prevent any woman's club that is active "politically" from being a member of the state federation there will inevitably be a strong opposition to it. The whole matter turns on what is 'politics.' To exclude any club on a partisan interpretation of that term would, I think, be very unfair.

"I am not a partisan in any sense of the term. I believe in open methods and in the freedom of the individual to vote according to conscience. I think it would have been better to have postponed the bringing forward of such resolutions. It is more than likely that their discussion will be heated and that it will hamper the real work of the convention.

"Along with a majority of our federated women I am opposed to the domination of a single woman with leisure to think up schemes and ability to organize votes for them. I have little hesitation in saying that the adoption of these resolutions would be disastrous to the California Federation of Women's clubs.

"I see that the program committee has placed the discussion of these resolutions on the last day and the latter half of that day. It may be expected that the fight for progressive ideas will begin by a motion to change the order of business and to transpose the consideration of these important motions to some session where there will be a representative number of delegates and ample time for discussion.

MRS. MILLS IMPROVING

Mrs. C. Irving Mills of 515 Central avenue, who has been indisposed at intervals for several months and who was taken suddenly and seriously ill a few days ago, is reported as much improved. It is hoped by her host of friends and her devoted husband and daughter that at an early date she may again be privileged to enjoy mingling among her friends and loved ones.

COMMITTEES REPORT

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE IN ENTHUSIASTIC SESSION SHOWS PROGRESS

The regular monthly meeting of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce was held in the recorder's room of the fire station Friday evening, May 14, 1915. The secretary, J. F. Lilly, read a very comprehensive report of the preceding meeting, after which J. W. Usilton, president of the chamber, delivered an address which is printed in full in another column in this issue.

The question of providing advertising matter for the city of Glendale was brought up and was discussed in a general way by M. P. Harrison, W. J. Clendennin, H. M. Miller, A. M. Brooks, Geo. T. Paine, M. B. Hartman and others. A motion prevailed that Chairman Usilton and Secretary Lilly make arrangements to provide advertising literature for Glendale. The chair stated that he would ask Geo. T. Paine, J. C. Sherer and A. M. Brooks to assist the committee thus appointed and he would expect these gentlemen to prepare reading matter suitable for advertising Glendale.

The question of selecting a slogan comprising one or more words to be used on printed matter was taken up for consideration and on motion it was decided to offer a prize of $5 to the person who would make the best selection. However, the arranging for the details as to the offering of the prize was left in the hands of the publicity committee.

Chairman Usilton suggested that the Chamber of Commerce offer a prize for the best gotten up float for the parade Saturday, May 29, which is to be held in connection with the festival of fruits and flowers. Messrs. G. B. Woodberry, J. N. McGillis and H. A. Wilson were appointed a committee to arrange in regard to the offering of such a prize.

Rev. W. E. Edmonds, chairman of the railroad committee, reported that the work of the committee had been necessarily slow as there have been many legal details to settle which have required considerable time. He said that a deal had just been closed that gave to the railroad committee a clear title to the ground on which the proposed Pacific Electric depot is to be built, and the Pacific Electric company has promised the committee that as soon as all legal matters have been sufficiently cleared up the work of extending the road east on Broadway from Glendale avenue will begin at once. "Of course there are the usual proceedings of opening and widening Broadway to be carried out legally by the city trustees," said Mr. Edmonds.

The question of the Chamber of Commerce members being in a position to give courteous treatment to strangers who come within the walls of the city or who may wish to locate in Glendale was taken up for discussion, and upon motion Stephen Packer, Geo. T. Paine, G. B. Woodberry, M. P. Harrison, A. T. Cowan, W. W. McElroy, J. H. Flower, were appointed members of a committee whose duty it will be to give strangers entering Glendale a cordial reception.

The question of erecting a band stand and the providing of rest rooms or comfort stations in convenient places was taken up for consideration and after considerable discussion was referred back to the committee previously appointed. M. P. Harrison is chairman of that committee. Additional members of the committee are L. E. Brockman, W. J. Clendennin and T. W. Preston.

All subjects taken up for discussion were entered into with an earnestness that shows very clearly that the members of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce are ready to do some live work for the city's interests.

Frederick Baker, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce welfare committee, called attention to the 6:30 o'clock banquet to be held at the Masonic temple Saturday evening and stated that from the number of tickets purchased that the attendance would be large.

STRUCK BY APOPLEXY

Mr. Isaac Severns, an aged veteran of several wars, now in his eighty-fifth year, was found last evening lying prostrate upon the floor suffering from a stroke of apoplexy. Although helpless, Mr. Severns retains his full mentality and in all other respects is in good health.

Mr. Severns is the father of the wife of Mr. J. Fletcher Tatlow. Some five years ago when Mrs. Tatlow was visiting her old home in Burlington, N. J., she induced her father to return with her to Glendale, since which time, having become so entranced with our climate, our people and the natural beauties of this spot, he decided that he could not do better than to spend the remaining years of his life here.

ACQUITTAL OF SEBASTIAN

All clean and right-minded women and men will rejoice that Chief Sebastian of Los Angeles has been acquitted by a responsible jury of his fellows. As a matter of fact, the public itself acquitted Sebastian at the primaries when he was triumphantly nominated with a majority of double that of his nearest competitor. The decent American public has no use for the kind of official policy that thinks lightly of spending vast sums of public money to prosecute doubtful charges against public men, supported by worthless "evidence" tendered by irresponsible women of shady character.

There is little doubt that the prosecution of Sebastian will result in making him mayor of the city of Los Angeles. That it will have other results regarding certain officials is equally certain.

Throughout the whole of the trial, engineered with such expenditure of public time and funds, there stands out the lesson that legal prosecutions ought not to be based on statements of lewd females who in all likelihood are but the tools of unscrupulous male degenerates. In some countries the testimony of a lewd woman is not accepted as legal evidence. If such a practice were the rule of our courts, it would be hopeless for evil-minded people to attempt to besmirch the characters of public men.

AVOID ADVERSE CRITICISM

"Criticism," said Coleridge, talking of some of his captious opponents, "is easier than creation." The poet's dictum may well be laid to heart by those who are always ready to see the dirty side of any question or the reprehensible side of any man's character. Oliver Wendell Holmes once said that some men were so mean that if an angel from heaven were to present them with a dollar, they would turn it over to see if the other side were dirty.

This world has already sufficient handicaps without adding to them. If you see a man who is struggling with difficulties and perhaps even with personal habits that do not commend themselves to you, instead of roundly condemning him say a good word for him, and if you can, drop him a sentence of encouragement. It is remarkable how much good can be done by the word of encouragement spoken in due season.

Lord Lytton, whose life of marvelous intellectual activity was traversed all through by the annoyances of Lady Lytton, who joined herself with his enemies, of whom he had very many and some exceedingly bitter ones, once said that at some crisis in his life when his very heart was broken open with deep care and his soul racked with a sad bereavement, a particularly venomous critic published a peculiarly savage attack on his character, both as a man and a literateur. The great novelist said that when he read those cruel words he burst into tears. It was the last straw.

Remember that when you, in your self-righteousness, may be roundly condemning some humble sinner, he in his self-abasement may be saying, "God be merciful unto me." Like the publican of old he is likely to get the better of the comparison in the sight of God.

When you feel inclined to say some cruel word, no matter how true; when you feel urged to utter some ruthless criticism or scathing condemnation of some frail sinner or some mistaken but struggling soul—pause, stop, consider. Will you do any good by it? If not, what purpose will your superior condemnation serve? Will it advance the world in any way? Will it help mankind? Will it improve manners or morals? Not at all likely.

It often seems marvelous that the critic should be spared to continue his cruel work. Doubtless he serves some purpose in the world. When one reflects that no one knows to what temptation he himself may be subjected or to what sin he himself may succumb, one should be very chary in condemning others.

It is better to speak what is good than what is evil. It is better to emphasize the better side of anything rather than the worse. Good manners as well as good morals recommend such a course. Good manners teach us not always to say exactly what we think, but to be considerate of the feelings of other people. Good morals warn us that we are not so almighty good ourselves, so pious and so holy that we can afford to flaunt our superiority in the faces of poor souls with their human failings and shortcomings.

Speak a good word always, not an evil one. Be considerate and hopeful of the best in the worst of people and thereby you may create the little spark of a better life that may be fanned into a bright and glowing flame.

In one of the psuedo-gospels where amid much that is preposterous, mistaken and sometimes verging on the blasphemous concerning Christ, there is one story that represents our Master as always speaking a good word for anything or anybody. "I believe," said one of his critics, "you could even say something good about that dead dog's carcass." "Yes," said our blessed Master, "see his beautiful white teeth."

MUNICIPAL OWNERSHIP OF RELIGION

Probably the logical outcome of municipal ownership would be that the city should own everything. Mayor Cattock of San Bernardino believes the city should own the church. He is not entirely original in that belief. Thomas More, the famous author of "Utopia," back in Henry VIII's time, advocated a church of that kind, only he proposed that the nation should own it.

Mayor Cattock wishes to see all the churches in San Bernardino abolished and in their stead a municipal tabernacle, seating between 2500 and 3000 persons. He would have the affairs of that church administered and its services conducted by a municipally-owned pastor under the control of the city fathers.

There is an element of sense in the proposition, at least as far as the principle of economy involved is concerned. It would be much cheaper for any city to run its religious worship on such a principle of co-operation and elimination of unnecessary expense.

Already, in Goleta, Cal., an experiment has been made successfully in this direction and the example might well be followed elsewhere. There is always the objection that certain churches might not, and some certainly would not, come in.

Then there is the certainty of what is called the "dissidency of dissent." Some person would be sure to start an opposition church. Some soul would see a great light and rush out of the "municipal tabernacle" crying: "Come ye out of here; touch not the unclean thing!" Some few would follow and the unity of the municipal church once broken, the disintegration would go on till matters would be as bad as before.

When Sir Thomas More proposed his national church he stipulated the wise provision that there should be but one article in the creed, "I believe in God." More was a thinker in advance of his age and even of this age. It will be remembered that Henry VIII had him beheaded. It is not possible to behead Mayor Cattock, but it is more than likely that he will lose his official head. It is not always wise to say outright everything you think.

If it were possible to reduce the creeds and church articles of the different churches to a single article of belief like that proposed by More, it might be possible to get along without a municipal church. Even then it need not be expected that the large army of clergy would consent to the abolition of their means of living. The question of compensation would come up and endless other questions and the controversy would be likely to breed more dissenting churches and ministers.

PRESIDENT WILSON'S STAND

It is significant of how eminently right President Wilson is in his attitude toward the sinking of the Lusitania by the Germans that General Otis, editor of the Los Angeles Times, an uncompromising opponent of the president in all other points of his policy, supports and approves his action in this. The president in his note to the kaiser makes it abundantly plain that it cannot assent to the German contention that submarines can be used against merchantmen without an inevitable violation of many sacred principles of justice and humanity.

More than this, it is a principle that cannot be permitted to be infringed that Americans must be at liberty to travel the seas on their legitimate business as they choose and when they choose.

The Germans have hitherto contended that because they warned the people of America that passenger ships would be sunk when found flying the British or French flag, President Wilson refuses to admit that any mere warning of this kind can possibly be accepted as an excuse or palliation for the act or as an abatement for its commission.

The president's words are conclusive of the determination of the United States not to omit any act or word that is necessary for the maintenance of the rights of the United States and the safeguarding of their free exercise and enjoyment.

No one can accuse President Wilson of being rash or unbalanced. In everything he has done, in his every presidential act, he has been actuated by principles, whether his opponents approve or not of those principles. Germany would do well not to mistake either the meaning of the president or the temper of the people of the United States. The whole country awaits the German answer with interest of the deepest kind.

POINTS OF VIEW

From New York comes the following view of public school education: "It is almost impossible to get boys and girls from the public schools today. I do not speak of the children who leave school before they finish their course, but of those who have their grammar school certificates. It is frequently the case that the average products of the elementary schools today cannot write legibly, spell or read correctly, or solve easy problems in arithmetic. A knowledge of simple fractions is too fanciful an accomplishment to contemplate."

Perhaps the trouble lies in the fact that much of our modern teaching tries to cover too much ground. There is also a tendency on the part of many teachers to take for granted that a child has learned a lesson when as a matter of fact the lesson has made no impression on the youthful mind. The good old fashion of committing to memory is falling into abeyance; not the mere repeating of one selection, but the general system of committing to memory everything that should be remembered and kept in remembrance in order to be ready for use when needed.

"There is no royal road to geometry," said the Chinese sages to the Chinese emperor's son. One must go through the same old routine and master the same old ground principles with difficulty and pain at times, but they must be mastered and the only way to do it is to do it. Perhaps the losing sight of this old method has something to do with the lack of thoroughness displayed in the case of the children of New York.

An exchange asks why Secretary Daniels should defend the navy. The fact that the navy is being grossly abused, in many instances by very ignorant people, may have something to do with it.

POSITION OF UNITED STATES

Deplore it as we may, the United States is launched upon a career as a world power. We may not and we should not unite with other nations in political alliance. But we must join with other powers, to a greater or lesser extent, in defining rights of neutrals in time of war, in revising the rules of international law and making them more consistent and more effective. We even may be constrained to become leagued with other great powers in an international compact to preserve the peace of the world. This compact, if entered into, may require us to act in concert with other powers, even to the extent of using force against any stiff necked nation that might flagrantly disregard the terms of the international peace-promoting compact.

Our commercial and social relations with the great nations of the our interests are so intertwined with the interests of other countries, we cannot hold so completely aloof, as we once did, from the adjustment of the issues of war and peace throughout the world. We have, in very truth, become a world power. We must prepare ourselves to assume the responsibilities appertaining thereunto.—Pasadena Star.

EXCERPTS FROM SERMON TO BE DELIVERED BY PASTOR TROY

SUNDAY EVENING, MAY 16

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH, GLENDALE

SEE IT IN THE BIBLE

Luke 18:8—If all or any of the great religious organizations called Christian represent the faith (see marginal reading of Revised Version), then why this interrogation of doubt?

John 17:9-26—Christ prayed for the oneness of his disciples and we do not doubt that his prayer is being answered. But the great religious organizations are anything but united, therefore they cannot represent the class for whom Christ prayed. Furthermore, the so-called Christian organizations are of this world, but the ones for whom Christ prayed are not of this world. See verse 16.

Luke 12:30-32—The saints of God are the "little flock." The great Christian organizations constitute the ruling powers of the so-called Christian nations.

John 18:36—Christ preached the kingdom of God; socialism preaches the kingdom of man.

Mt. 24:6-7—Wars and rumors of wars until the end of this age.

James 5:1-11—The problems of the rich and the poor not to be adjusted until "the coming of the Lord."

Study carefully the second and third chapters of Daniel. Consult Pastor Troy if in need of help.

Luke 4:5-6—Christ does not deny the present sovereignty of Satan.

I John 5:19, R. V.—"lieth in the evil one."

Acts 1:10-11—"Shall so come in like manner."

II Thes. 1:7-10—If through the agency of home and foreign missions the world is to be converted to Christ, please explain what Paul means by teaching that Christ is coming in judgment upon them "that obey not the gospel."

Mt. 24:14—The gospel of the kingdom to be preached as a witness to all.

Acts 15:14-21; Rom. 11:11-27—Israel temporarily rejected while God calls out a people for his name from among the Gentiles.

Rev. 20:11-15—Observe that the dead are raised to be judged and the wicked are then—after having been resurrected—cast into the lake of fire, the place of final punishment. Resurrection, not death, brings to the judgment of the great white throne.

II Pet. 3; Rev. 21:1-2—Peter speaks of three worlds: (1) The antediluvian world, verse 6; (2) The world that now is, verse 7; (3) The world which is to come, verse 13. The antediluvian world was destroyed by water but not annihilated. The present world will be destroyed by fire, but not annihilated; we look for a new heaven and a new earth.

I Cor. 15:20-28—Why raised to earth if we are to be in heaven forever?

II Cor. 12:1-4—Paul evidently believed it was at least possible for him to be out of the body in Paradise hearing and seeing; observe the parentheses.

II Cor. 5:1-10—Three states of the soul: (1) In the earthly house, mortal body; (2) Naked, without a body, and present with the Lord; (3) Clothed in the heavenly body, the resurrection body. Observe he does not say Absent from the body, clothed upon with the heavenly body, present with the Lord. No! "Absent from the body—present with the Lord." The best state, however, is to be clothed with the heavenly body, the immortal body, the resurrection body.

The physical world is simply the expression of the spiritual world. Resurrection is for the expression of spirits on earth. Resurrection and life are not the same.

II Cor. 1:20-25; 2:1-16; Mt. 4:4; John 6:63.

I. That Jesus Christ entertained, as the result of His mission to the world, the ideal of any such ecclesiastical organizations as the Greek, Roman or Protestant churches, is nowhere to be found in direct statement, or slightest hint, in the New Testament. In fact, if Jesus Christ were on earth today, the so-called Christian churches would present an insuperable barrier to His teaching; even as much so, if not more, than the Judaism, which hindered and hounded Him during His earthly career.

II. The teaching of the Word of God is the direct opposite of the philosophy of scientific socialism. Jesus Christ was not a socialist; neither would He, if on earth today, spare the apostles of the kingdom of man.

III. The Word of God teaches that every kingdom on earth is under the dominion of Satan, and far from being Christian nations, they are the kingdoms of Beelzebub.

IV. The New Testament teaches that the literal, bodily, visible return of Jesus Christ to this physical world is absolutely essential to the salvation of the world, and until that great day of the Lord the kingdom of heaven cannot be established on earth. Any such idea as the conversion of the whole world by the agency of home or foreign missions is contrary to the plan of God revealed in His Word. The gospel of the kingdom of heaven will be preached as a witness to all of the nations, and an elect company will be gathered out from every tongue and people. These are the two great accomplishments of the present dispensation.

V. The doctrine, generally taught and believed in Christian churches, of dying and going to heaven (a place of final bliss) if good, or to hell (a place of final torment) if bad, is nowhere taught in Scripture. The great objective of Christianity is not going up to heaven to live forever. The great objective of Christianity is living on this earth in resurrection bodies forever and ever. How different!

VI. That the dead lapse into a state of absolute unconsciousness, therein to remain until resurrection, is not the teaching of revelation. The reality of the spirit world (hades) is the very foundation of Christian Philosophy.

VII. The teaching of the Bible is foolishness to the children of this world, but to them that believe it is the bread of heaven, the water of life, the very Word of God.

FIVE HUNDRED FREE SEATS

Large Chorus Under Leadership of Prof. Cunningham

3:00—Junior league. Eula May, president. Topic, "A Day's Work at a Time."

6:30—Epworth league. The evening will be devoted to hearing reports from the annual district convention. Bring the Brown and Curry books. Good singing.

7:30—Evening worship. Subject, "Where Are the Living versus Where Are the Dead?" This sermon will be no mere sentimentalism that has to do with people when destiny is fixed, but will deal with the reality of life in the present.

FIRST ENGLISH EVANGELICAL LUTHERAN CHURCH

It is with peculiar gladness and large hopefulness we enter upon our new location for holding our Sunday morning services in the Seventh Day Adventists church, corner Third and Isabel. It is through their courtesy this opportunity is ours. We much appreciate it. And as Lutherans in this entire community we have the privilege of calling it "our church" so long as we hold services there. Surrounded as we will be with everything churchly, suggestive of worship and sacredness, there ought to be an added impulse to our work. Let all Lutherans and friends of the congregation take notice. With this very important change in the place of holding services, the pastor will endeavor to encourage the work by bringing the divine message this Sunday morning, "Go Forward." All welcome.

BIBLE LECTURES AT THE CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH

June 6—"How Big Is Your Bible?"

June 20—"Can We Believe the Bible?"

Mr. Larkin is the man who gave the splendid address before the Federated Brotherhood at its last meeting just before the Brown and Curry meetings. He will have a helpful message for the people.

LAST OF SERIES

Dr. Matt Hughes, one of America's most gifted Methodist divines, will be the speaker Monday evening at the last of the series of Bible lectures by prominent ministers at the Glendale High School. The subject will be "The Church." The name of Matt Hughes is sufficient to pack the auditorium to overflowing. The course has been remarkable for attendance and masterly efforts of the visiting orators. Monday evening will be a fitting climax to the celebrated Monday evening Bible Lecture course of the united church of Glendale, Tropico and Casa Verdugo.

It is expected that the live Methodists of Glendale will furnish the music. A collection wi'l be lifted for the expense of advertising and printing. There will also be some important announcements.

A REMARKABLE VIEW OF THE PRESENT DISTRESSING CONDITIONS AND A GLIMPSE INTO THE GLORIOUS FUTURE AS SEEN THROUGH THE GREAT TELESCOPE OF BIBLE PROPHECY.

The above is the theme of a lecture which promises to be intensely interesting as well as very instructive and will be given Sunday evening at 7:30 o'clock at the Masonic Temple by Mr. W. Hower Lee of Los Angeles.

Mr. Lee is lecturing in the interests of the Associated Bible Students and claims to have made a careful study of the Bible prophecies and says that we are now living in the time when the prophecies should be understood by all Christians; he also says that a great many people are awakening to the fact that the world's present terrible experiences far exceed anything that history has recorded, and are at a loss to know why such should be the case in this great time of knowledge and enlightenment. He says that the only answer which will prove satisfactory is found in the Scriptures and he promises to help all who desire to understand that great problem to their own satisfaction.

While this lecture is distinctly undenominational, it is said to be eminently Christian, affording much comfort and hopefulness to people of all classes, both inside and outside of all denominations.

To arouse such interest in Bible study as will banish prejudice and bigotry seems to be his object in giving these lectures, and it has been announced that they are entirely free and no financial assistance whatsoever is asked.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR

(By Rev. Mottern.)

Sunday, May 16, topic, "Why I Believe in Christian Endeavor." 2 Tim. 1:1-14. Union meeting with the Juniors.

Bible Help.

Its covenant, Heb. 8:8-13.
Its Christ Ideal, 2 Cor. 5:14-21.
Its Bible reading, Ps. 119:33-40.
Its prayer habit, Eph. 1:15-23.
Its worship, Heb. 10:25.
Its following, Eph. 4:1-6.

Seed Notes.

Multitudes in all countries of the world have been most signally blessed by the Christian Endeavor. Men and women who are indebted to the society for its aid in the development of their Christian lives are ever singing its praises. Personal testimony is ample to the benefits of the society wheresoever it goes. It is unlike any other Christian organization in the world in that it is not perpetuated by law, nor church nor United Society at its headquarters in Boston, but the young people themselves see to it that its blessings are enjoyed by them and then it is handed down, passed on in plan and spirit for the help of others coming on.

Opportunity.

We believe in Christian Endeavor because of the opportunity it offers to the young. Self improvement in religious culture has never received a greater stimulus. Each Endeavorer has an opportunity each service to take part and help to make the meeting a success.

Good Citizenship

Christian Endeavor has never failed to emphasize the necessity of making better citizens, better public servants, better private lives, being more trustful and faithful, and a better republic.

Missionary Spirit.

Christian Endeavor has never failed to catch and drive home into the mind and hearts of its members the vision of a world-wide gospel, which is inspired by the world-wide duty of fellowship and service. The very ends of the earth are brought together in feelings of brotherhood and interest that support a fraternal sympathy.

Some Things Definite.

The Endeavor society has from the beginning striven for something definite. Its aim has been the development of the young. Things worth doing it binds us to do, and helps us to do them.

It Emphasizes Religion.

The Endeavorer believes in sport, clean and good; social activities, study of natural history, etc., but never places them above the individual need of Christ, or a definite religious experience.

It Believes in the Young People.

Being a work primarily for the young, to be carried on by them, it has unlimited faith in them. And it never despairs because some show less interest than others, but by constant patience and touch with the spiritual minded, seriousness gradually displaces it.

It Has Made Good

No young people's religious work has ever begun on a smaller scale, with more humble outlook, has ever attained its gigantic lines. Its principles from the start in 1881 have never deviated. Its aims have been realized. Its blessings multitudinous. Its spirit most beautifully Christ like. Men and women and organizations that made good have merited the attention of the world, so with the Endeavor society, not a plan it set out to do, God has allowed to fall. It has made good and hence fully merits unlimited interest.

Call that day blessed that does not record its frightful toll by accident in street or highway.

"See America First" is a slogan to which these troublous times have given new emphasis.

TO PREVENT WEEDS

Far more important than to kill weeds is to avoid having weeds to kill. In other words, the farmer should aim to prevent rather than cure the evil. A farm can be made almost free of weeds by strictly observing the following principles: (1) Prevent weeds from going to seed on the farm; (2) prevent weed seeds being brought to the farm; (3) in the case of perennial weeds prevent them from making top growth and thus finally starve out the underground parts.

Annual weeds live only one year, maturing their seeds and then dying. Biennial weeds live two years; during the first year they grow rather slowly, producing usually a taproot and a rosette of leaves close to the ground, but the second year they send up flower stems that produce seed and then die. As the annuals and biennials propagate themselves by seeds alone it is necessary to observe only the first two of the principles stated above in their control.

Perennial weeds, on the other hand, produce each year underground parts, which live over to the next year and produce top growth. These weeds propagate themselves by their underground parts as well as by their seeds, and, even if prevented from going to seed, keep on growing. In dealing with perennials, therefore, it is necessary to observe all three of the principles.
